MIKE’S FISH TANK PLATIES

PLATIES ARE NATIVE TO THE east coast of Central America and southern Mexico. They are a very popular tropical fish as they come in such a variety of colors. If you want color in your tank, come look at the platies.

Platies are livebearers and have live babies. like the mollies, guppies and swordtails. Platies may eat their own young so keep them in a well planted tank so the babies have a place to hide.

Several different color variations have been developed, such as red, yellow, orange, blue, and white. The mickey mouse platy has a spot on their tail that looks just like a mickey mouse head. Wag platies have black tails but the body may be red, orange, blue, white or variations. There is a hi fin platy which is a platy with a big top fin, the new candy cane platy is red and white and very cool looking. Another new platy is the bumblebee platy and is yellow and black like a bee.

Platies like a warm temperature, around 78 to 80 degrees.

They will eat most flake foods, frozen brine and freeze dried foods. Maximum size for a platy is about 2 and a half inches.

Females are bigger than the males.

Maximum age for a platy is 2 years but can live longer.

Platies have even been known to eat algae.

They are just a very beautiful, colorful tropical fish.

If you don’t have any in your tank, stop in as we stock a variety of colors.

 Pets A Plenty is located in the Blockbuster Video Plaza, Rte 281 Cortland, 753-9213. Open 7 days a week. We now have a website. WWW.PETSAPLENTY.BIZ. check it out. I post care sheets, coupons, new animal arrivals, contests and more. Any questions, email me at friskyy@hotmail.com

HOW TO DIY YOUR WAY TO IMPROVED MENTAL AND PHYSICAL HEALTH

RESEARCH SHOWS THAT PARTICIPATING IN traditional arts and crafts hobbies naturally boosts your mood and improves your emotional state. We’ve put together a few ideas below to help you DIY your way to improved mental and physical health.

1. Join a Knitting Group

Knitting has made a comeback in a big way: by some reports, 33% of women ages 25-35 knit or crochet now. It is the repetitive action of doing needlework that puts people into a relaxed state much like meditation and yoga. Knitters give their minds a break because they focus on the task at hand rather than the things that worry them throughout the day. Once you get the hang of knitting, you lower your heart rate, blood pressure, and harmful levels of cortisol, the stress hormone, and reduce stress.

Another health benefit of knitting is that it boosts self-esteem when you see your completed projects.

2. Make a Tabletop Meditation Fountain

Many people find that being near running water is soothing, but you can’t always head outdoors and find a stream or river. Making a tabletop meditation fountain is one DIY project that is challenging enough to keep your mind focused and relieve stress but simple enough for just about anyone to do. You’ll also reap the benefits of having produced a project in which you can take pride and continue to find peace by watching the water and listening to its sounds. Water fountains provide stress relief and act as a natural humidifier to improve your indoor environment.

3. Install Shelves to Hold Your Creations

If you are up for the challenge of using power tools, you can pursue a woodworking hobby. Simple beginner projects such as installing DIY shelves is a great way to ease into DIY home improvement projects and start a hobby that will bring you a sense of pride and accomplishment, update your home, and provide you with a space to hold your other arts and crafts projects. You will keep your brain active by designing woodworking projects, and you will improve your mental health by focusing on the project at hand rather than the things that trouble you.

Of course, any DIY hobby project requires the use of some special equipment, and you should take steps to ensure your health and safety while completing the projects.

LOOKING FOR A WAY TO ”PAMPER YOUR PET”?

HOMEMADE GOODIES - THERE’S NOTHING better than home cooking, and the same goes for your dog or cat. Homemade dog treats are perfectly healthy for your pet in small quantities, as well as being super easy to make. Just like human food, many store bought treats have unnecessary additives - so pick your favorite concoction from the thousands of recipes available online and get baking!

MASSAGE - Just like humans, dogs hold stress in their muscles. Of course they love to be pet, so why not take it one step further with pet massage? It can increase circulation, promote flexibility and make stress disappear. Simply rubbing the muscles at home to see how your pooch likes it. If your dog groans, that’s a good sign. For your cat - gently rub the cat, giving special attention to the head and tummy. If they don’t like it, they’ll tell you!

DOGGIE DAY - Pick a nice day to go to the park and have a picnic with your pooch. Pack some food for you and for them, then spend the day running and playing in the park. A few games of fetch or Frisbee are a great way to get your dog up and active as well as fitting in a little exercise for yourself!

PERSONAL SPACE - It’s a jungle outside with a world full of hazards to cats. That’s why many owners choose to keep their cats indoors. You can install a safe indoor perch for your pal near a sunny window. Cats love padded perches where they can relax and enjoy watching the world go by. OR - You can buy or build an outdoor enclosure so your frisky friend will have some new play space to explore and enjoy the fresh air!

No matter how you choose to pamper your pet, make sure to give them lots of love and attention - remember YOU are the most important thing in their life!

WHICH DOG? MARGIE HILLENBRAND, DOG OWNER COACH, LLC

THE INTERNET IS FULL OF breed specific information to help people choose dogs. But you also need to consider what matters to you, in your specific situation: size, energy, time, expense... What do you want the dog to do? Not do? What are your limitations? Where do you live?

Jackie is a single adult with a full-time job. She jogs. She travels. She wants a small, fluffy, short-nosed dog to jog, travel, and sit on her lap. Her parents will keep the dog when she's at work or out of town. They aren't getting any younger.

She might consider a small to medium (not short-nosed) dog - sporting breed, herding breed, terrier, and spitz? What does she want the dog to do or not do when she's not jogging and not home? She can probably afford grooming. Does she have time to train? Can her parents move fast enough to get a puppy outside to house train or should she consider a house trained dog that's had some training? And dogs live 10-15 years? Is there a relationship or children in her future?

Pete wants a big dog (not a "yappy" dog). He just retired. He's always been active and healthy. He's thrifty with his money. The kids are in college. He likes to watch TV and putter in the garden. He's got a medium-sized house and a big fenced yard. He's not going to walk much or haul a dog to training classes.

He might consider an adult dog; a dog content to just hang out, not a lot of genetic health issues. He doesn't want a dog that digs or barks at his neighbors and their dogs; maybe a dog to chase squirrels and rabbits out of his yard. He wants a dog who will welcome his grown kids and their friends and maybe grandkids down the line.

Ed is pushing 80. He just lost his old field-bred Lab. He's always owned field-bred Labs but he doesn't hunt anymore. In fact, he's moved to a one bedroom apartment that his son built for him on their house. Ed's in good health but he doesn't have the strength to do a lot of leash work or training anymore. His son's family has land to walk, a pond, and a fenced yard - perfect for a middle-aged Lab. His son loves Labs, too. In fact, he's got a dog who's also retired from hunting; off-leash trained. The dog follows Ed everywhere when the family's at work. When no one's looking, dog naps with him in his apartment.

Sounds like a match made in heaven.

Gladys is 70. She's always lived in a ground-floor apartment in the city but crime is rising in her neighborhood. She rarely walks anymore, not because she's afraid, but because of pain and she doesn't hear well. She has a very small back yard where she likes to sit. She has a lady come to clean, and cook for her. Her kids and grandkids visit often. They've talked her out of big guard dog. Smaller is cheaper.

She might consider a small medium-sized dog that barks to alert but welcomes friends and family; house-trained; content to play in the house or yard; big enough not to get under foot, small enough that a vet's not afraid to come to her house. Even a small dog might be too much for her if she didn't have help.

Kyle is seventeen. He's begging for that "hero dog" he just saw on TV - the one that rescued a trained S.E.A.L. team from cannibals in the jungle. (He doesn't live in the jungle and his friends don't usually need to be rescued.) He wants a dog that enjoys adventures. Hike? Camp? Ball games? Sit by the computer? Watch TV? Hang out? What kind of adventure are we talking here? Kyle's family lives in a neighborhood:

people in and out, dogs everywhere. His parents DON'T want a dog who will attack, bark, chew ... They're happy for Kyle to train the dog but nobody has extra money. They're constantly on his case to pick up his room, take out the trash. Will a dog just be one more thing to argue about? Kyle will be a foreign exchange student in the fall and then on to college. His folks want to travel. Who will keep the dog?

If they get a dog, they need a dog that enjoys people coming and going, dogs in the neighborhood, games in the yard, easy to train. Probably not a puppy. TV and movie dogs are highly trained working dogs. Many of the breeds they choose are not good choices for the average family. Maybe Kyle should consider volunteering at a shelter, fostering, or dog-sitting

Ed and Julie have three kids, ages 8-3 years old, and they're expecting a baby. They have a big house and a big yard. They both grew up with dogs. They learned a lot about puppies and training from their first Golden. Their second Golden just passed away. He was 12. He grew up with the kids. He was perfect. Ed and Julie took their dogs (and their kids) everywhere. They had time to train the dog before the kids came and more financial resources, more energy, more time. Ed and Julie walked twice a day but the break has been nice. They played with the dog after work, but Julie's been sick so Ed helps more with the kids and meals and housework.

Maybe it's better to wait until things settle down. Maybe dog sitting for family or friends would bridge the gap for now. Maybe an adult dog that lost his family through no fault of his own?

As dog owners, we can spend a dog's life working with his instincts or fighting with those same instincts. What do you want your dog to do or not do? Be honest about any limitations. Be thoughtful about the environment you live in. Dogs that don't like other dogs may not be a good choice if you live in a neighborhood.

Are there exceptions? Sure. Always. There are wonderful people who will do whatever it takes to "make it work" no matter what dog they bring home. There are others who want to, but can't for legitimate reasons. Then there are owners who just wish they'd asked more questions.

9TH ANNUAL VERNE MORTON
MEMORIAL PHOTOGRAPHY
SHOW & CONTEST

By April Scheffler

THE 9TH ANNUAL VERNE MORTON Memorial Photography Show & Contest has scheduled their Gala Opening for Friday, August 25th from 6:00 pm to 8:00 pm and an all-day show on Saturday, August 26th from 10:00 am to 5:00 pm at the Groton Town Hall, 101 Conger Boulevard, Groton, New York. Taking place during Groton Olde Home Days, this annual event is open to anyone, from anywhere, of any age, amateur or professional. All photos must be taken in either the Town or Village of Groton.

Verne Morton, a truly exceptional photographer, was born in Groton in 1868 and lived here all his life. Taking over twelve thousand photographs during his lifetime, he created a treasure trove of photos, mostly taken in Groton, depicting what it was like to live at the end of the 19th Century and the early 20th Century. The purpose of the Verne Morton

Memorial Photography Show & Contest is to continue the Verne Morton legacy of appreciating the grace, beauty, and art that surrounds us every day, to document life in Groton during our time, and to preserve a pictorial history that will be enjoyed by future generations. Verne Morton photos can be viewed at the History Center in Ithaca and online at www.thehistorycenter.net. Photos from previous Verne Morton Memorial Photography Shows can be viewed online at the Town of Groton website at www.townofgrotonny.org.

Anyone interested in entering the photo show can get information from the Groton Town Clerk’s Office by calling 607-898-5035 or going online to the Town of Groton website and downloading the rules and entry form. The deadline to enter is Wednesday, August 23rd at the Town Clerk’s Office, 101 Conger Boulevard, in Groton. Please remember, all photos must be taken within either the Town or Village of Groton.

Organizers, April Scheffler and Robin Cargian, say that the photos keep getting better every year and they are expecting that it will continue this year. They are also hoping for a larger turnout as they continue to encourage everyone to enter. “You don’t have to be a great photographer to win, just have a great photo.”

The Verne Morton Memorial Photography Show is sponsored by the Town of Groton and by grant support from the Community Arts Partnership of Tompkins County.
