HEATSMART HELPS HOMEOWNERS UPGRADE HEATING & COOLING

A FTER A YEAR OF SPENDING more time at home than ever anticipated, we all have long home improvement wishlists. High on many of those lists is improving comfort, efficiency, and air quality, but where to start? New Yorkers struggling with high heating fuel bills and uneven hot or cold spots are increasingly turning to heat pumps as a clean, efficient alternative to furnaces, boilers, electric strip heaters, wood stoves and air conditioners, and significant grants and rebates are now available to help make the switch.

Both National Grid and NYSEG now offer rebates through the NYS Clean Heat program for all income levels. Federal tax credits for geothermal heat pumps have been extended until 2022. And in response to the hard times of the pandemic, New York State has expanded the eligibility and grant amounts available to low-to-moderate income households to assist in improving insulation and upgrading to clean, efficient heating and cooling with heat pumps. Finally, HeatSmart CNY and other community campaigns help owners learn about these systems, connect with other heat pump homeowners, and access reliable installers.

But what is a heat pump? The most common type of heat pump is the air-source heat pump, which uses electricity to run a system that works like an air conditioner in the summer, but in the winter can reverse, pumping heat into your house even when temperatures are as low as -15°F! Today's cold climate heat pumps can reduce your energy use for heating by approximately 50% or more compared to oil and propane furnaces and baseboard heaters. High-efficiency heat pumps also dehumidify better than standard central air conditioners, resulting in less energy usage and more comfort in summer.

Air-source heat pumps have been used for many years in nearly all parts of the United States, and in recent years, technology has advanced and cold climate air source heat pumps are found everywhere, including Canada and Alaska! For homes without ducts, air-source heat pumps are also available in a ductless version called a mini-split heat pump.

Geothermal heat pumps achieve higher efficiencies by transferring heat between your house and the ground or a nearby water source. Although they cost more to install, geothermal heat pumps have low operating costs because they take advantage of relatively constant ground or water temperatures.

Heat pumps offer many advantages over other systems, including lower running costs, less maintenance, greater control of your comfort, more convenience, better safety, long life spans and lower carbon footprint. Many homes in the region are close to "net-zero" -producing as much energy as they use- by pairing geothermal heat pumps and solar.

To learn more about heat pumps, visit GetHeatSmart.org to find your local community group. HeatSmart CNY, organized by the Central New York Regional Planning and Development Board and Alliance for a Green Economy, hosts Heat Pump 101 webinars at 7 PM on the last Monday of the month; register at HeatSmartCNY.org.

CREATURE FEATURE HANDLING BIG FISH PROPERLY

 $\P$  atch-and-release anglers strive to return  ${f fish}$  to  $m{ u}$ the water in good shape, as studies prove they can survive, thrive and even be caught again in the future. As a staunch advocate for supporting our fisheries through catch and release, I'm troubled when I see fish subjected to unnecessary overplaying, deep hook sets, getting dropped and oxygen deprivation from being kept out of the water far too long - all common sources of anglerinduced injuries.

In addition, how we hold a fish, especially a heavy one, can impact its survival. Lifting large fish vertically from the water, a net or for photos can cause devastating separation of the vertebrate. This is especially true for longfishlike northern pike but also threatens bass species over 3 pounds. Another harmful hold is sometimes seen during bass tournaments. While dangling from its lower lip, the fish is tilted upward and bent at a horizontal angle, putting tremendous stress on the lower jaw. This can result in muscle/soft tissue damage and fractures. The fish often swims away only to succumb later as it can't feed. If you must lift a big fish, support its weight by placing one hand firmly under its belly.

We're never too old to learn; and by changing the way we handle big fish today, we help ensure a healthy fishery for tomorrow.

MIKE'S FISH TANK ICK

 $T^{ ext{HIS}}$  is the time of year when a lot of people have fish catching ick, due to varying temperatures.

Ichthyophthirius multifiliis is an ectoparasite of freshwater fish which causes a disease commonly known as white spot disease or ich. Ich is one of the most common and persistent diseases in fish. It appears on the body, fins and gills of fish as white nodules that look like white grains of salt. Each white spot is an encysted parasite.

If not controlled, there is a 100% mortality rate of fish. With careful treatment, the disease can be gotten rid of. But the protozoa damages the gills and skin as it enters the tissues, leading to ulceration and loss of skin. Severe infections rapidly lead to loss of condition and death. Damage to the gills reduces the respiratory efficiency of the fish, reducing its oxygen intake from the water. This causes the fish to become less tolerant to low oxygen concentrations in the water.

Ich is a stress disease. Stresses like water temps going down or up, fish being chased by bully fish. Tapping or hitting the glass tank can all cause ich.

Check your fish carefully daily. Treating the ich fast is the key to not losing any fish.

Anniversary celebration for the CNY Maple Festival 2020. Golden plans included a return of all the Maple Festival Queens, a tribute to the volunteer Founders of the Festival, a pictorial history of past Festivals and much more.

Because the environment today is still much like it was when the 2020 Festival was cancelled, volunteers desirous of keeping the Maple Festival's tradition alive have come up with a plan to do just that! A "Drive -Thru Maple Festival"!

On April 10th from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. maple products and Maple Festival Food will be marketed to the vehicles, carrying families and friends who want to experience a bit of Marathon's Maple Festival. Signage throughout the Village will direct Festival-goers to Appleby Elementary School's curbside where vendors will cheerfully share their goodies.

Purchases will be delivered to

On Main Street, the Methodist Church features barbecued chicken halves and the 4-H Club "The Maple Sugars" will be offering their maple sundae.

Maple Festival Chairwoman, Paige Parker said "We are calling this drive-thru adventure "49 and Holding, A Maple Festival Extravaganza Experience". We expect to have a real 50th CNY Maple Festival celebration in 2022. We are holding on, letting people know that in Marathon it is our tradition to celebrate the coming of spring by tapping maple trees, boiling sap and making one of nature's sweetest gifts."

CORTLAND COUNTY TRIVIA

ID YOU GUESS THE ORIGINAL name of Marathon? Harrison was the first name given to Marathon. It was set apart from the town of Cincinnatus on April 21, 1818 and it was named after William Henry Harrison, the ninth President of the United States. The name was changed in 1828 because there was another town in New York State that was also Cortland County has been the home to many artists. Our artist in question was born in Taylor sometime between 1810 and 1815, although some sources claim that he was born in Onondaga County. However, because it was shortly after Cortland County was set apart from Onondaga County (1808), that is probably where the confusion lies. This man's father died when he was just five years old and he was then placed in the care of an uncle. He was not treated well there, and he ran away at 13. He was on his own in the wide world and worked in a variety of jobs to support himself. He ended up creating busts made of clay and studying marble cutting. He was a self-taught artist. This sculptor was responsible for creating the first equestrian statue in the United States. It was a tremendous job to create the bronze statue and the horse is perfectly balanced on its back legs. Your hint is that the statue stands in a prominent location in Washington, D.C.
