CREATURE FEATURE BLACK BEARS IN SPRING

WHEN BLACK BEARS ROUSE FROM hibernation they are very hungry, having lost as much as 30% of their body weight in the den. Natural forage in early spring is scant and lacks caloric value, leaving bears to eat grass and picked-over winter carrion as they await summer's bounties. Meanwhile, they continue to lose weight throughout spring, especially females with nursing cubs.

Food scarcity can lead bears to human spaces as their extraordinary sense of smell detects promising aromas. We can reduce problematic encounters with hungry bears by taking preventive precautions.

- Store garbage indoors if possible and wait until collection day to put it out in containers with tight fitting lids.
- Take down bird feeders through spring as they attract bears. Bird baths and nesting boxes can be left in place.
- Feed pets indoors whenever possible; store

WORKER BEE LANDSCAPING & LAWN CARE

MICHAEL FARNSWORTH, OWNER OF WORKER Bee Landscaping and Lawn Care is ready to begin his seventh season as a self-employed landscaper. After spending 35 years in the printing and publishing industry, Farnsworth’s last employer went the way of many newspapers around the country and closed down.

“I needed something to do,” Farnsworth said. “I had to travel a bit for the newspaper and would often see lawn care people working outside mowing grass and mulching or planting, and was always a little envious because they looked tan and healthy, and weren’t locked to a desk.”

He bought some basic equipment on a limited budget in the Spring of 2014, and put an ad in the local pennysaver.

“The phone started to ring,” Farnsworth said. “I had about 20 steady lawn mowing customers my first season, and did some weeding, cleanup and mulching for customers.”

Most all those mowing customers he got his first season are still with him. He said he uses the same customer service skills he learned in 35 years with printing and publishing.

“Just like when I worked in my former career, I would do all I could to keep appointments, or call if running late, be pleasant and honest,” Farnsworth said. “That, I think is the key to building and keeping customers.”

Worker Bee Landscaping and Lawn Care has grown in size as a result.

“I’m still a small business, and do most the work myself, except for the larger landscaping jobs, then I get some help.”

Farnsworth does a lot of Spring cleanups this time of year, including picking up fallen branches and lawn repair mostly from snow plow damage, then when the ground finally dries up a little, he is asked to re-edge flower beds, weed and mulch for many of his customers.

“It’s always a rush this time of year to get these types of jobs done,” Farnsworth said. “Because when the grass is ready to mow in early-to-mid May, I get super busy with that.”

Worker Bee also provides trimming of bushes and small trees in addition to weeding, seeding, planting and mulching. It has also built retaining walls for customers, rebuilt and repaired existing sidewalks and patios, in addition to designing rain gardens.

Farnsworth’s business has grown each year since he started, but he wants to stay small so he can still do most the work himself and be at every job site whether working alone or with a crew.

“I truly love this work, I should have started it 20 years ago when I was a younger man,” Farnsworth said. “It’s great working outdoors, and good exercise too!”

Farnsworth, who is turning 62 in May said he hopes to continue the work for several years as long as he’s physically able.

“I feel great right now,” he said. “Never better!”

Farnsworth can be reached by phone at (315) 506-3032, or thru email at workerbeesyracuse@gmail.com.

his mother and four of his siblings. His father became abusive, and John went to live with a neighboring family. He worked odd jobs to make money to buy baseballs and magazines so he could learn the rules of baseball. John played minor league ball and was recruited by the Baltimore Orioles at 18 years old. He would also play for the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants. John J. McGraw would eventually spend 30 years as the manager for the New York Giants. There is a monument to McGraw in the town of Truxton. The Giants came to Truxton to play an exhibition game to raise funds to purchase the monument in 1938, three years after McGraw's death (1934). McGraw was inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1937.

MIKE’S FISH TANK 10 TIPS

A LOT OF PEOPLE COME in with fish problems this time of year, so I want to share this again.

Tips for a healthy new tank

1 When setting up a new tank, wait 24 hours before adding fish. Make sure your temperature is stable for at least a day up and down temps cause fish to get sick.

2 only add a few fish to the tank for the first 5 to 6 weeks, you need a good bacteria to grow which will break down the ammonia fish give off.

3 Be sure to siphon the bottom of your tank once a month.You want to get the excess food and waste out.

4 Feed your fish 3 times a day, but small amounts. Their stomach is only about the size of their eye. Fish do best when fed several feedings a day.

5 Do not add an algae eater until you see algae. Remember algae eaters are tropical and may not do as well in a colder goldfish tank.

6 Small tanks may have more aggression because the fish do not have as much room. Large tanks can sometimes hold community and aggressive fish because there is a lot more room.Tanks under 10 gallons can be difficult to keep fish alive in.

7 Change your filter cartridge at least once a month. This will help keep your tank clean.

8 The fish farms do not recommend ph drops.Fish can adjust to ph but not if it keeps getting changed.

9 When buying fish, be sure to go right home.Fish need to get into their new tank as soon as possible.

10 Only float your bag of fish for 5 minutes. That is all the time it needs to equalize the temperature.
