CREATURE FEATURE LATE BLOOMER

Tor most wildlife, the frenetic season of establishing and Por MOST WILDLIFE, THE FRENCH CO. is winding down. There are, however, still a few movers and shakers out there taking advantage of summer's late offerings including the delightful American goldfinch.

In late summer, the American goldfinch is in the thick of parenting duties. Its delayed nesting behaviour correlates with the life cycle of late-blooming thistle plants and the ripening of their seeds. Thistles provide both nesting material and food for the goldfinch, whose diet is primarily seed based.

This species raises one brood per year. The female lays pale blue eggs in a tightly woven nest made of grasses and plant fibers. After hatching, most other bird species feed their nestlings insects; but goldfinch parents feed their babies exclusively with partially digested and regurgitated seeds. Young continue to receive care for 11-17 days after fledging.

During summertime, the male goldfinch is lemon-yellow with a black forehead; his black wings have white bars. The female is olive-coloured above and yellowish below. Look for this pretty bird in open country, especially areas with thistle patches. Also, try attracting the goldfinch to your backyard feeder by offering thistle seed in summer and switching to mixed seeds in winter.

HOW FIBER-OPTIC INTERNET CAN BOOST THE VALUE OF YOUR HOME

THE DEMAND FOR FIBER-OPTIC INTERNET HAS NEVER been higher. As our homes get smarter, and we turn to connected devices for work, leisure, education, and more, we expect a fast, reliable connection. For all of these reasons, adding fiber Internet capabilities to your home is considered a wise investment.

The Benefits of Fiber-Optic Internet

A 2015 study found that the addition of fiber-optic Internet can increase a home's value by 3.1%. That's equal to an additional $9,000 on a $300,000 home. In fact, it provides the same value as adding a fireplace or half bath. But how does this seemingly intangible addition make your home more valuable? The value lies in the wide-reaching benefits of fiber connectivity.

The obvious benefit is increased speed. As the number of remote workers and the self-employed rises (as we've seen during the current pandemic), the importance of reliable Internet speed at home is more apparent than ever before. A better connection improves efficiency and provides faster upload and download speeds.

Have you ever experienced one of those days where nothing will load? You can't seem to browse the web and your Netflix account keeps buffering? With fiber, you can say goodbye to those bad connection days.

Not only will you receive information faster, but your information is also more secure with a fiber-optic Internet connection. Fiber doesn't radiate signals, making it almost impossible to hack and increasing security.

It's More Accessible Than You Think

Some have written off the addition of fiber connectivity due to the impression that its installation is expensive and time-consuming. We're working diligently to build new infrastructure and make improvements that will bring high-speed Internet to more and more communities. If fiber isn't available to your home or business currently, we hope to bring it to you soon.

Over the last few years, the cost of fiber-optic cable has decreased significantly. In fact, the cost of connectivity over fiber is less than the alternative legacy TV or phone cable. And as we've already covered, it's an investment that will save you countless hours of the frustration that can come with an inferior connection.

Fiber Capability Is Still A Differentiator

These days, it's hard to find a home without a master bathroom. But there are still many people who have yet to jump on the fiberoptic Internet bandwagon, so a fiber connection at your home can be a major selling point. An attractive business feature for owners telecommuters, families running several Internet-connected devices at once, fiber capability will help your home stand out from the rest.

Interested in adding fiber-optic Internet to your home?

Summerhill Brewing started 1/4 mile from its current site, in Sallee and Jeff's garage. One to two times a month, the group would open up the tasting room to the community. There was no formal advertising--just word of mouth, Facebook and a growing email list. We had four beers to offer, which slowly grew to more. Every Sunday, Kurt would brew a 20 gallon batch of beer. Our stock would be consumed by patrons, and we would have to assess what we had, and what we had to make. Once we were stocked back up, we would open up. With so much community support, we decided to grow.

We are a family business offering a variety of hand crafted ales in a setting like no other--tucked off of NY Route 90, in the countryside of Summerhill.

We strive to be an asset and a support to our community; using local products and services whenever possible. It is important to us to use the most environmentally friendly products and practices as possible to protect our planet.

Summerhill is packed with important history. We like to highlight Summerhill's history as much as possible when naming our ales. Millard's American is named for our 13th President born in Summerhill. Paper money IPA is named for Elbridge Spaulding, who was a US congressman drafted the National currency bank bill, creating paper money. Summer hill was originally named Plato, but after discovering a town of that name already existed in New York State, it was changed to Summerhill, after a town in Ireland. The coordinates of Summerhill Ireland are 53N 6W, or the name of our Irish red ale. These are just a few examples of Summerhill's rich history. We're located at 14408 NY 90 in Locke, NY. Questions call us 607-591-6148 or email summerhill.brewing@gmail

Follow us on Facebook and Instagram!! Check out the website for news and events too! summerhillbrewing.com

We invite you to come enjoy our brews, relax and have some fun.

Our destination is worth the trip up the hill!

MIKE'S FISH TANK GOURAMIS

 $m{ ilde{r}}$ any gouramis have an elongated ${
m ray}$ at the front of their Pany Gouranis have an electronic pelvic fins. Many species show parental care: some are mouthbrooders, and others, like the Siamese fighting fish (Betta splendens), build bubble nests. As labyrinth fishes, gouramis have a lung-like labyrinth organ that allows them to gulp air and use atmospheric oxygen. This organ is a vital innovation for fishes that often inhabit warm, shallow, oxygen-poor water.

Generally regarded as peaceful, gouramis are still capable of harassing or killing smaller or long-finned fish. Depending on the species, adult and juvenile males have been known to spar with one another. Aggression can also occur as a result of overcrowding. Gouramis can be housed with many species, such as danios, mollies, silver dollars, barbs, corys and plecostomus catfish, but will often show aggression toward species with long, flowing fins like male guppies, and bettas.

Gouramis, particularly the three spot blue, opaline or gold and dwarf, are often kept in home aquariums. As labyrinth fish, they will often swim near the top of the tank. As with other tropical freshwater fish, an aquarium heater is needed. Gouramis will eat either prepared flake, live or frozen foods. Some species can grow quite large, and are unsuitable for the general hobbyist. The most peaceful of the gouramis are the honey,croaking, and most of the dwarfs, such as rainbow, powder blue, and red fire. The blues, opalines and golds are a bit more aggressive.

The pearl, chocolate and moonlight are larger gouramis and generally peaceful. Gouramis are a good choice as they are hardy and do not get sick very easily.

CORTLAND COUNTY TRIVIA FROM THE CORTLAND COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

ID YOU GUESS WHAT YEAR the first railroad came to Cortland? After decades of false starts and ambitious plans, the Syracuse & Binghamton Railroad was the first to come to Cortland in 1854. By that time, railroads had become well established in the northeast and turnpikes and canals were taking a backseat to the rapidly expanding train lines. Railroads offered a punctual and reliable method of travel and transportation of goods.
